Happy First Friday of 2023!

I hope your new year is off to a wonderful start. We are taking down, cleaning up and getting ready for the biggest fundraising event of the year and looking forward to lots of fun in the coming months.

Our board meeting is this Tuesday, Jan. 10, at noon. I hope you will be here to get all the last minute updates on the Big Chill. Kay and her committee have lots to report. This will be a BIG event and we need everyone's help.

I have attached the minutes from last month's meeting and the personnel policies that we will vote on at the meeting.

We haven't sold enough tickets yet to cover the awards that we will be giving out so keep working on that. I have attached the list of folks who purchased tickets last year in case you need some help identifying some friends.

Have a great weekend, let me know whether or not you will be at the meeting.

Thanks for all you do!

School Safety and Behavioral Threat Assessment

Public Consulting Group and Dr. Melissa Reeves, Ph.D., NCSP, LPC will present key steps your district can take to adopt a research-based approach to threat assessment. This model is based on the US Secret Service approach to reduce the risk of school violence and leverages multidisciplinary teams in each school to identify, evaluate, and support students who present a potential threat to themselves or others.

- Click HERE to register for our Behavioral Threat Assessment Webinar on February 9th at 11:00am EST!

Dr. Reeves is a nationally certified school psychologist who served on the NC School Psychology Association School Safety and Crisis Response Team where she was involved with threat assessment, school safety/crisis response training, and consultation with multiple NC school districts. Dr. Reeves is part of the team providing threat assessment training for schools through the NC Center for Safer Schools and is also involved in training universities affiliated with the UNC system in establishing threat assessment programs and teams. Dr. Reeves is a co-author of the PREPaRE Crisis Prevention and Intervention curriculum and travels both nationally and internationally training professionals in crisis prevention and intervention, threat and suicide assessment, trauma and PTSD, and cognitive-behavioral interventions.

School Safety and Behavioral Threat Assessment

Public Consulting Group and Dr. Melissa Reeves, Ph.D., NCSP, LPC will present key steps your district can take to adopt a research-based approach to threat assessment. This model is based on the US Secret Service approach to reduce the risk of school violence and leverages multidisciplinary teams in each school to identify, evaluate, and support students who present a potential threat to themselves or others.
